

A LONG WAY AROUND

SALT LAKE, Oct. 8.—Governor John Sparks of Nevada headed a party of Nevada Democratic candidates which spent part of Saturday in Salt Lake. They are on a campaigning tour and had come by the way of Salt Lake to get from northern Nevada to the towns they wish to reach in southern Nevada.

The party consisted of John Sparks, nominee for governor, Frank P. Manly, of Rhyolite, nominee for secretary of state, attorney general J. G. Sweetney of Carson, nominee for justice of the Supreme Court, Geo. A. Bartlett, candidate for congress, D. M. Ryan, candidate for reelection to treasurer, Daniel S. Dickerson, of Elko, nominee for lieutenant governor. The party was in Elko railroad day and made speeches there. They have been working through the northern towns and left over the Salt Lake route last night for Las Vegas, where there will be a meeting tonight. They will speak in Searchlight Friday night and will try and make Caliente and Pioche Saturday, hurrying over to Bullfrog for the meeting next Monday.

"Judging from our reception where ever we have been and from the reports coming in from all parts of the state we will have a victory this fall," said Mr. Mannix, who is editor of the Bullfrog Miner. "The democratic ticket has a great advantage by being headed by Governor Sparks. He has the confidence of all classes. The miners and other workmen know that 'he is on the level' and so do the men of other classes. His personal popularity is a great factor in the campaign. Our nominee for congress is a bright man who is making friends rapidly and is helping the ticket."

"Of course, there is a great deal of uncertainty owing to the immense new vote, Nevada has leaped ahead with marvelous rapidity since the last state election, and there are thousands of new voters. As near as we can find out a majority of the new comers are democrats, which fact gives us added reasons for confidence."

Governor Sparks was an invited guest at a dinner last evening given by the members of the Salt Lake Public Service company, who are in this city. He was accompanied by David M. Ryan.

A party of republican nominees including John F. Mitchell, candidate for governor; Oscar J. Smith, candidate for congressman; W. G. Douglass, candidate for Secretary of State; George Springmeyer, candidate for attorney general; George T. Mills, candidate for lieutenant governor, and A. D. Elliott, candidate for surveyor general passed through Salt Lake Wednesday on their way to Lincoln county, where they will stump the district for the Republican ticket.

HOORAY FOR THE SOUTH END

The south end is looming up. Fleckner, the candy man has purchased a portion of the Oleovich corner and will open a candy factory in that building. This will open up all the building which has so long been vacant and an eyesore to every citizen in the southern part of town.

Aren't we growing? Well I guess yes."

William Sharon was among the passengers on the way to Virginia this morning.

A large number of people arrived on the train this morning and proceeded to the south on the Minden train.

MANAGEMENT OF THE PARK CHANGED

The management of the Park Theatre has changed. Professor Smith retiring and R. J. Sweetland remaining as sole manager. Mr. Sweetland has let the contract for remodeling the old Ozark and and Henry Heidenreich is at work this week on the plans and specifications.

The house will be made safe, comfortable and attractive and the management will have first class attractions each week. The name of the place will be changed to the Grand and the auditorium will be roomy and convenient. Double exits will be provided so there will be no danger from fire and the machine box will be enclosed in fireproof material until it is as safe as it can be made.

A double dissolving stereopticon will be used in displaying the pictures for the illustrated songs, which will make the scenes melt into each other instead of appearing abruptly. The seating capacity of the house will be greatly increased and comfortable open chairs installed. In fact the entire place will be decidedly modern and attendance at the new playhouse will be pleasurable.

NEVADA HUMORIST LAUNCHING OUT

Leslie H. Bell, who resided here for a number of years, has been in the real estate business for some time and at present is interested in lots on Monterey Heights. The literature he is sending out has the earmarks of the aforesaid L. H. and is certainly very clever.

Upon an envelope received by a friend this morning the following is found in the upper right hand corner, printed in a style that cannot fail to attract the recipient:

"A friend of mine got a very unpleasant letter in a sealed envelope. Another got the scarlet fever from her cousin, (no cousins in mine, thanks) over a thousand miles away. In the same style of package, I've known people to send statements and duns in sealed envelopes—what do you think of that? Stuff is often sent sealed because it isn't fit to be seen. Isn't it so? It should be left open for ventilation. And the amount of family trouble and scandal that's floating around under two cent stamps—don't, don't! No one would dare send anything very bad unsealed—they'd get found out—and how many could stand that? 'Vow, vow,' did you say? THIS IS NOT SEALED."

—Leslie Belle Hamline. Leslie has surely missed his call (but any of the big magazines will pay him good rates for anything he would send in).

The circular enclosed in the envelope contains as much humor as the above—the old dry, quaint humor which all who know him recognize as Leslie's own.

A GENTLE GAME OF GRAFT

Four little girls, connected with the leading families of this city, became imbued with the spirit of fun one day last week and when the children of the orphan's home fled into the tent to view the wonderful freak of the desert, "Kuter" these small girls flung arms and fell into line with the youngsters and saw the freak without paying any admission fee.

The children of the home are so neatly and inconspicuously dressed when out on the street there is no difference between them and the society little ladies and the deception was not discovered by the proprietors of the show.

"It was just for fun" explained the jolly little maidens when they were taken to task by their fond mamas for transgressing the rules in that manner.

INDIANS MUST PAY PENALTY

The two Indians, Johnny and Iba-pah must hang.

This was the decision handed down today in the Supreme Court of the State of Nevada, when that body affirmed the decision of the lower court which found them guilty of murder in the first degree.

The two Indians brutally murdered an old man, a cripple near Montello, on the line of Southern Pacific, several months ago. They were taken to Elko and were convicted.

The Indians were drunk at the time of the murder and were on their way to Elko. Meeting the old man on the track near Montello they attempted to bribe him to buy more whiskey for them. This he refused to do and was brutally murdered by the intoxicated Indians. His body was placed under a pile of ties by the side of the track and the ties set on fire. When an investigation was made the charred remains of the aged cripple were found.

The Indians have occupied cells in the condemned row at the prison for several months, but will now be taken to Elko where they will be resented to be hung.

THE GLENBROOK MAIL

Ed. Haskell, the mail contractor, says he will "jump the job" if he is called to carry the mail between this city and Glenbrook every day, even at an advanced rate.

Should the water be a savor on the task will be next to impossible. He is willing to tackle it, but shies at going any farther.

WILL BE PAINTED

That "Children and fools make fun of unfinished work" was never more fully exemplified than in the communication to the News one day last week, when the opera house management was taken to task for not painting the building at once.

The building is to be painted, and just as soon as work on the roof and chimneys is completed, the work of painting will be commenced. The color will be a delicate grey and the old house will present a fine appearance. Many improvements will be made upon the inside of the house and when the legislature convenes the house will be in readiness for good companies. The season is to be a good one and Manager Meder feels justified in expending a large sum for the betterment of the house.

WHY DIDN'T YOU BUY?

Why didn't you buy Belmont Friday and sell it Saturday, taking the figures from the Weekly? Friday, according to the board, it was selling at 1.60; the next day, according to the Weekly, it sold for $6.800. May be that isn't going some.

Miss Clara Crisler was a passenger on the morning train today. The merry go round is "folding its tents like the Arab and silently stealing away."

Richard Stephens, manager of fine picture show was in town today to see about displaying his films here soon. Among the pictures he shows one of Goldfield on the morning of today day, with the races, drilling contests and other games in progress.

The Churchill County Eagle is the name of a new paper started at Fallon.

Miss Kate O'Connor visited the home folks in Virginia Saturday, returning this morning.

Tom Tennant, the younger, is in from Goldfield on a health seeking expedition. He has found the right place all right.

Fine new stock of dress trimmings, laces, embroideries, silkolines, cotton batts etc., just received at the little store two blocks back of the Park Hotel. F. W. DAY.

FOUND—A stockpin evidently made from heirloom. Prove property, pay fifty cents for this ad, and take the pin.

CHARLEY STOUT OWNS A CHURCH

RENO, Oct. 8.—Charley Stout, partner in one of the largest gambling houses in Reno and owner of one at Carson, has a church for rent on South Virginia street. He holds a title to what was recently the First Christian Church building in Reno. The congregation has disbanded, and the large building, furnished and already for a preacher to take charge is the possession of Mr. Stout, sporting man. He declines to use it for anything but church purposes, and, accordingly it is not rented, as there happens to be no congregation without a home wandering about the state.

"Why don't you open a gambling house in the place, asked an irreverent friend.

"Because 'tis a church and I am going to run it as one," answered Stout. "As long as there is a chance of leasing or selling it to some religious body it will not be used other wise. I bought it as a matter of speculation for it's a fine piece of property. Some church congregation will take it off my hands yet."

FOR A BRIEF VISIT

Mrs. F. E. Davis returned this morning from Oakland where she and her daughter, Miss Grey, have been located for the past two months. Miss Davis has a position in the Ferry building with a promise of promotion soon.

Mrs. Davis will remain long enough to attend to some business and will then go back to Oakland where she expects to make her home in the future.

Miss Pearl Cowing returned this morning from a visit to Reno.

UTAH CAPITAL IN RENO

What will probably be the largest and most extensive wholesale grocery and supply house in Nevada has been organized by local men who have seen in Reno an opportunity to start a big business with every indication of financial success.

Winslow V. Rice, George Morgan and W. A. Simmons have organized the Reno Grocery company which will operate at Reno. The capitalization of the company is $100,000 and of this amount $10,000 is paid up. The purchasers have bought a tract of land in the business district of Reno, 130x180 feet in size, and work will be commenced at once on a ware house to cost not less than $15,000. Orders have been placed for the stock which will be delivered as soon as the building is completed.

Winslow V. Rice is named as the president of the company; George Morgan as vice-president and W. A. Simmons as secretary and treasurer. —Salt Lake Herald.

THE TROUBLE SPREADING

Miss Nellie Burlington is having a serious time, the blood poisoning begun in her lips, extending all over her face. It will be remembered that the trouble was contracted at the time of the local play, The Chinese Honeymoon, when the paint used in the making up poisoned her lips.
